Recreation & Parks celebrates 50 years

Carroll County Department of Recreation & Parks is celebrating its 50-Year Anniversary with an outdoor celebration on Saturday, October 2, 2021 from 4 p.m.-8 p.m. at Hashawha Environmental Center in Westminster. The event will be held outside rain or shine, with a tent on site.

Past and present staff, volunteers, advisory board members, and elected officials will be present for an evening of food, music, a 50/50 raffle drawing, and a silent auction. All proceeds from the 50-Year Celebration will benefit the Carroll County Park Legacy Fund and support local park improvements.

The public may purchase tickets to the event through the department's reg-

Barrier-free non-profit organization showcases studio artists

by Sylvia Blair

Young local artists from Barrier Free's Life Skills and Social Studio hosted a community art exhibition Sept. 10- 11 at the main studio in Historic Downtown Sykesville, Carroll County.

Barrier-Free is a community nonprofit service organization that provides inclusive art, self-advocacy, and social programming to adults with disabilities. It is run by Britt and Lauren Burr, who have worked for a variety of disability service organizations in Maryland.

On June 1, the organization expanded to include the Life Skills and Social Studio, where the event was held in an open-house style. A variety of original pieces were available for display and sale. All proceeds went back to the neurodiverse artists and Barrier-Free, and over $2,000 worth of art and merchandise was sold.

A neurodiverse artist is an artist who thinks, behaves, and learns differently than what is "typical" in society. Neurodiversity

Ten Tips for Better Car Care

Fall car care is important for winter safety, but regular maintenance has other benefits as well. According to the pros at the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), motorists can benefit from longer vehicle life, increased gasoline mileage, and better re-sale value. The following tips from ASE can help you locate a good automotive repair facility as you shop for auto service this fall.

- Ask your friends and associates for recommendations.
- Arrange for alternate transportation in advance so you will not feel forced to choose a shop based solely on location.
- Look for a neat, well-organized facility, with vehicles in the parking lot equal in value to your own and modern equipment in the service bays.
- Look for a courteous staff, with a service consultant or technicians willing to answer your questions.
- Look for policies regarding estimated repair costs, diagnostic fees, guarantees, acceptable methods of payment, etc.
- Ask if the repair facility specializes or if it usually handles your type of repair work.
- Look for signs of professionalism in the customer service area such as civic, community, or customer service awards.

Look for evidence of qualified technicians. Trade school diplomas, certificates of advanced course work, and certifications by ASE indicate the presence of professional, trained technicians.

Look for the ASE sign, which indicates certified technicians.

Reward good service with customer loyalty.

The National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) is dedicated to improving the quality of automotive service and repair through the voluntary testing and certification of automotive technicians.

Visit www.ase.com for more car care tips.

ASE-certified technicians wear blue and white ASE shoulder insignia; their employers often display the blue and white ASE sign. FC06A512

Keep safety in mind when you travel

People are traveling more now that life seems to be returning to normal, but getting on an airplane still presents some risks. Stay safe by following this advice from the Wirecutter website:

- Pack and wear masks. Even with more people vaccinated, masks are still a good idea when flying in an enclosed compartment with recirculating air. Pack plenty and keep them readily accessible in your carry-on bags. Swap them out immediately if they get wet, sticky, or dirty. Don't forget hand sanitizers and wipes.

- Check documentation requirements. Double-check your airline's rules for vaccination, testing, quarantining, and other related requirements. Also confirm what's expected at your destination, especially if you're traveling internationally.

- Eat and drink carefully. Airlines still require masks during flight unless you're eating or drinking. Pack snacks for specific, scheduled meal breaks to maintain consistent mask use. Fill up your water bottles before the flight and make sure they're sturdy and don't leak.

- Explore your destination in advance. Find out what restrictions apply in the city, state, or country you're visiting. Many tourist attractions require reservations to prevent overcrowding, so make arrangements ahead of time. Follow local guidelines for masking and social distancing. Even as life starts returning to pre-pandemic "normal," it's smart to stay safe.

How mulched leaves help your lawn

Various chores are synonymous with certain times of year. For example, cleaning a pool is a summertime task. In addition, rare is the instance that Mother Nature forces anyone to break out the snow shovels outside of winter. Raking leaves has long been a task for fall afternoons, but homeowners may be surprised to learn that they might be better off putting their rakes in permanent mothballs.

In the 1990s, turfgrass specialists at Michigan

State University began exploring the potential benefits of leaving mulched leaves on a lawn instead of raking them and leaving them for curbside pickup. While the researchers noticed an obvious leaf residue on the lawn after mulching, they noted that it only sticks around for a few days. Eventually, the tiny pieces sifted down into the lawn, ultimately serving to control future weed growth while also providing the lawn with essential nutrients. Over time, researchers noted that homeowners who mulched rather than raked their leaves needed less fertilizer to give their lawns a green look in spring, saving homeowners the effort and cost associated with fertilizing.

Researchers also noted that decomposing pieces of leaves cover up bare spots between turf plants, which have traditionally proven to be excellent spots for weed seeds to germinate. In fact, MSU notes that homeowners can expect a nearly 100 percent decrease in dandelions and crabgrass after mulching leaves for just three years.

Depending on the type of mower being used, up to six inches of leaves can be mulched at a time. Push mowers can handle smaller amounts, though can still be as effective as ride-on mowers.

Fall may be synonymous with raking leaves. However, homeowners who want to give their lawns a healthy boost should consider putting their rakes away and mulching their leaves this fall. FH198141

Easy ways to clean up leaves

Autumn is marked by colorful foliage and plummeting temperatures. Once those leaves reach peak color, they fall from the branches and collect on lawns, necessitating cleanup projects. For homeowners with big yards, such a project can be tiring and time-consuming. However, there are ways to make leaf cleanup easier.

One of the easiest ways to clean up leaves is to reach for a lawn mower rather than a rake. The mower will cut leaves down to smaller sizes, creating an effective mulch that can add nutrients back into the lawn. Davey, a lawn and landscape solutions service, says that mowed leaves also can be collected in a mower bag and added to garden beds or compost piles.

For those who prefer manual raking, select a rake with tines that will not skewer the leaves in the process. Big rakes also can make faster work of gathering leaves into piles.

The home improvement resource The Family Handyman advocates for the use of a lawn sweeper. This is a manual device that has a rotating sweeping brush that gathers up lawn debris and leaves into an attached hopper bag. Like mowed leaves, the bag can be emptied into

What is a standby generator?

No one wants to imagine losing power in their homes. But homeowners and renters face such situations every day. For those who aren't prepared to confront power outages, doing so can be a nuisance in the best of situations, and potentially very dangerous, if not fatal, in the most dire instances.

Thankfully, no one has to go long without power. Standby generators are backup electrical systems that operate automatically. Once the generator senses a power loss, which can occur within seconds of a utility outage, its automatic transfer switch essentially gives the generator a wakeup call, commanding it to begin supplying power to the circuits in a home.

Some transfer switches may be automated, requiring no effort on the part of homeowners when the power goes out. Others may need to be flipped on like one might flip a light switch. Seniors and/or people with mobility issues may benefit from standby generators with automated transfer switches, as they may find it difficult to manually turn the switches themselves. That's especially true if the power goes out overnight, when visibility inside a home with no power is compromised.

Standby generators are typically connected to the circuits throughout a home, which means they can kick in and run HVAC systems, refrigerators and security systems, among other devices. That helps people stay comfortable and sleep well during power outages, while also ensuring they won't have to throw away any groceries or spend times in their homes without functioning security systems.

Standby generators can help people prepare for and overcome storms and natural disasters, making them an invaluable addition to any home. TF201602

Check Your Smoke Detector

Check your smoke detector at least once every six months, if not more frequently. It might not be working. Although the average life of a smoke detector can span as long as 10 to 15 years, the devices can go on the blink, and you wouldn't know it. About 30 percent of smoke detectors fail after 10 years, according to a recent report. And about 50 percent of them shut down after 15 years. Though it might emit a sound when you test it, that doesn't necessarily mean it will alert you to smoke or fire.

Easy ways to clean up leaves

a compost pile or distributed where needed.

Raking leaves onto a large tarp is another option. Once it's full, the tarp can be taken to the curb where many towns will collect the leaves seasonally. Otherwise, the tarp can be used as a funnel to put leaves into a gardening bag or another appropriate receptacle.

Leaf blowers remain a fast option for cleaning up yards, but they require electricity or gas and can be noisy. Still, they are a popular choice for large landscapes or when quick work needs to be made of leaf clean-up.

Leaves will fall in autumn, but luckily homeowners have various methods at their disposal to tame the mess. FH198139

Picking paint for home interiors

Many components combine to define a home's interior. Some homeowners may be partial to certain styles, such as ultra modern or farmhouse, while others may opt for a more traditional look that cannot necessarily be categorized as one style or another. Though many homeowners may spend considerable time and devote a lot of energy to making their home embody a certain style, those who aren't willing to commit to a particular look can lean on one component to make a stylish statement all their own: paint.

Color can be a part of every homeowner's design arsenal. Bold colors can be used to create a stunning accent wall, while homes with open concepts often utilize color to define rooms. Homeowners who want to revitalize their home interiors can do so with paint, and this approach doesn't require homeowners to commit to a whole new design style.

Though paint may seem simple to novices, homeowners who have painted home interiors in the past recognize how complicated the process of picking paint can be. Paint retailers have a seemingly endless swatch of paint colors to choose from, and before long homeowners heads may be spinning as they try to narrow down their options. The following tips can help homeowners pick the perfect paint for their home interiors.

• Take stock, and photographs, of your current furnishings. Many interior designers rely on a simple technique when recommending color schemes to their clients. Choose a stand-out color from existing furnishings, such as the dominant color from a patterned decorative pillow or piece of furniture, and then look for the same shade to paint the walls. A photograph of the item can be handy when visiting the paint store.

• Lighten colors as you go up. The home renovation and design experts at HGTV recommend picking darker color values for the floor, medium color values for the walls and light values for the ceiling. This approach mimics the look of the great outdoors, where the ground tends to be darker than the trees, and the trees are darker than the blue sky.

• Utilize paint to create the vibe you want.

The home renovation experts at This Old House note that colors evoke an emotional response. Cool colors like blue and green give off a relaxing vibe, which makes them ideal for bedrooms and bathrooms. Red is an intense color that can up the energy ante in any room, which can make it an option for homeowners who want to spark debate around their dinner tables.

• Give personal preference its place at the table. Though interior designers may have years of experience picking paint colors for a home and researchers may have determined how certain colors can be utilized to create a desired ambiance in a given room, ultimately homeowners are the ones who will be living in the home. So it's important that homeowners pick colors they like for their home interiors.

Paint is an inexpensive way to transform a room. Homeowners can rely on a combination of color strategies and their personal preferences as they try to decide which colors they want on their interior walls. FH218177

Car Care Tip:

Today's high-tech automobiles can accumulate a lot of mileage with very little evidence of wear and tear, making it easy to avoid looking under the hood while the vehicle is running well. But preventive maintenance can be a valuable investment, increasing fuel efficiency and saving the expense of emergency repair service, towing charges and even the inconvenience of a breakdown.

Cooking Corner

Dear Cooks,

Hi! Cooler weather means we don't mind firing up the oven to bake some tasty treats, right? Fall and the delicious aroma of baking apples and cinnamon kinda go hand-in-hand in my book. It's a wonderful season! Crisp, cool mornings, the trees changing color, falling leaves, apple cider and cozy sweaters, all signs that the sweltering summer is behind us. Time to make hearty soups and stews, bake cookies, cakes and breads, light campfires and roast hotdogs and marshmallows and really enjoy outdoor events.

Enjoy! Elaine

Chewy Oatmeal Apple Cookies

- 1/2 Cup Butter (softened)
- 1/2 Cup Brown Sugar
- 1/4 Cup Sugar
- 1 Egg
- 1/2 tsp. Vanilla Extract
- 3/4 Cup All-purpose Flour
- 1 tsp. Ground Cinnamon
- 1/2 tsp. Baking Soda
- 1/8 tsp. Salt
- 1 1/2 Cups Old-fashioned Oats
- 1/2 Cup Dried Apples (chopped)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In a large bowl cream together butter and sugars until light and fluffy. Beat in the egg and vanilla extract. Combine together: flour, cinnamon, baking soda and salt. Gradually add to creamed mixture, mixing well. Stir in the oats and chopped apples. Drop onto parchment lined baking sheets with a small cookie scoop, 2 inches apart. Bake for 10 to 12 minutes, until golden brown in color. Cool on wire rack. Store in an airtight container after completely cooled. Makes 2 dozen cookies.

Apple Cinnamon Cake

- 1 1/2 Cups All-purpose Flour
- 2 tsp. Baking Powder
- 1/2 tsp. Baking Soda
- 3/4 Cup Granulated Sugar
- 1 Large Red Apple (1 cup, peeled, chopped)
- 2 Large Eggs
- 1 tsp. Vanilla Extract
- 1/2 Cup Vegetable Oil
- 1/2 Cup Greek yogurt

- Cinnamon Topping:
- 1/4 Cup Granulated Sugar
  - 1 tsp. Ground Cinnamon
  - 1 Tbsp. Butter (melted)

- Sugar Glaze:
- 1/4 Cup Powdered Sugar (10x)
  - 1 to 2 Tbsp. Milk

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees F. Grease and line an 8 or 9 inch baking pan with parchment paper. In a large mixing bowl, add the flour, baking powder, baking soda and sugar. Add the chopped apple and stir briefly to combine. In a separate bowl, add the eggs, vanilla, oil and yogurt. Whisk briefly just to break up the egg yolk. Add the wet ingredients to the dry ingredients and gently mix with a wooden spoon until combined, be careful not to over mix. Spoon batter into prepared pan. To make the cinnamon topping, combine cinnamon, sugar and butter. Mix together until lumpy and wet. Sprinkle over top of batter. Bake cake for 30 to 35 minutes or until a toothpick inserted into the center comes out clean. Transfer to a wire rack to cool completely. To make the glaze, mix together the sugar and 1 tablespoon of milk. Stir until smooth. If the glaze is too thick add an extra tablespoon of milk. Drizzle glaze over top of cooled cake. Serves 8.

encompasses a variety of neurological differences that stray away from neurotypical standards.

"Our talented artists have worked tirelessly to bring this event to life," said Lauren Burr, executive director of Barrier-Free. "The art gallery event was amazing! Every artist sold a piece of their work. One artist sold over 44 pieces of origami. Other artists sold art depicting their favorite cartoons and landscapes, while some sold poetry and clay creations."

Creative Director Britt Burr explained this event was independently-planned and executed by the participants, with oversight and guidance from Barrier-Free. The group had gallery rehearsals in which they practiced where and how each person would be stationed at The Art Gallery. This helped to ease any anxieties and pressures about public speaking or about spatial orientation at the event. There were greeters, check-out attendants, servers, and those who mingled in the crowd. This ensured everyone had a role and each role addressed a specific task.

"My favorite art is origami," Alexander Willis, a Barrier-Free participant, said. He creates origami pieces by memory each day, which he displays on the shelves at the studio. Other artists worked on canvas paintings, sketches, origami, poetry, clay sculpting, and more.

In addition to their art, participants worked hard at practicing life skills like public interaction, navigating money transactions and event organization.

"Everyone was in high spirits," said Lauren. "The artists owned the night. I noticed that guests were happily engaged with each artist. Our guests shared how impressed they were with how each person had a role to play."

"Barrier-Free began with a desire to do and be better for the community," said Lauren. "That desire also includes providing high-quality programming built on the values of respect, transparency, creativity and equity. We have a desire to take inclusive practices to a new level of excellence and a desire for change."

Barrier-Free's Life Skills & Social Studio is located at 7520 Main Street, #103, in Sykesville, Md. For more information, email info@barrierfreemd.com or go to <https://www.barrierfreemd.com>.

Most Americans Are Unaware of Key Cancer Risk Factors

(NAPSI)—The majority of Americans are unaware of several major risk factors for cancer—most notably obesity, which will soon overtake smoking as the largest preventable cause of cancer in the United States. This is one of the many findings from the American Society of Clinical Oncology (ASCO)'s National Cancer Opinion Survey.

Less than a third of Americans (31 percent) realize that obesity is a risk factor for cancer, even though it is currently the second leading preventable cause of the disease. In fact, a higher body mass index is associated with increased risk of a number of cancers, including colon, breast, high-grade prostate, and uterine cancers. According to a recent analysis by the National Cancer Institute, if the current rates of obesity continue to trend upward, by 2030 there could be about 500,000 additional cases of cancer in the United States than would otherwise be expected.

"Our lifestyles have a big impact on our risk of developing many common cancers," said ASCO Chief Medical Officer Richard Schilsky, M.D., FACP, FASCO. "That so few Americans are aware that maintaining a healthy weight is associated with lower risk for many cancers should serve as a wake-up call. Unfortunately, obesity is a problem that cannot be solved overnight and will require broad societal engagement to address."

The survey also found that few Americans are aware of other lifestyle factors that increase their cancer risk. For example, less than one in three Americans (30 percent) recognize alcohol as a risk factor for cancer, despite the fact that alcohol consumption can raise the risk of certain cancers, including cancers of the mouth, liver and breast. By contrast, a majority of Americans correctly identify tobacco use (78 percent) and sun exposure (66 percent) as risk factors for cancer.

In addition, some misperceptions about cancer risk persist: Fourteen percent of Americans incorrectly identify cell phones as increasing the risk of cancer, and 8 percent incorrectly identify caffeine as a risk factor for cancer.

At the same time, the majority of Americans are not taking some important preventive actions to reduce their cancer risk. Only 48 percent say they use sunblock or limit their exposure to the sun; 41 percent say they maintain a healthy weight; and 38 percent say they limit alcohol consumption in order to prevent cancer.

The nationally representative survey on Americans' attitudes about cancer was commissioned by ASCO and conducted online by Harris Poll from July 10–18, 2017, among 4,016 U.S. adults ages 18 and older.

"This research helps us understand what our fellow Americans know and believe about cancer, and therefore where we need to focus as a nation in our efforts to conquer cancer," said ASCO President Bruce Johnson, M.D., FASCO. "It is clear there are many important gaps we need to address—from educating the public about cancer prevention, to confronting high treatment costs, to investing in cancer research that is vital to improving patients' outcomes in the future."

The survey also shows that overall, Americans are optimistic about the future of cancer treatment and expect there to be a steady pace of progress over the coming decades. Nearly four in five Americans (79 percent) believe that the majority of cancers will be curable within the next 50 years, compared to 66 percent who think most cancers will be curable within the next 25 years, and 39 percent who believe most cancers will be curable within the next 10 years.

McDaniel College named a U.S. News 'Best Value'

by Sylvia Blair

McDaniel College in Westminster has again been named a top "Best Value" by U.S. News. This is the third consecutive year that McDaniel has been named number one for academic quality and affordability on U.S. News & World Report's "Best Value Schools—Regional Universities North" list.

"According to U.S. News, it considers four variables in determining the schools that offer the best value," Cheryl Knauer, director of public relations at McDaniel, said. "To determine which colleges and universities offer the best value for students, U.S. News & World Report factors academic quality, need-based scholarships or grants, total expenses, and financial aid," she said, citing usnews.com.

"We are proud that McDaniel College continues to be recognized for the college's commitment to access and affordability," said Knauer. "Over 90 percent of McDaniel students receive some type of financial assistance and McDaniel invests over $50 million annually in awarding grants and scholarships to our students. We make it possible for students from all backgrounds to experience a McDaniel education."

McDaniel also ranked as one of the best regional universities in the North by U.S. News in their "2022 Best Colleges" rankings. Institutions on the Regional Universities lists offer a full range of undergraduate and master's degree programs.

U.S. News looks at factors such as class size, admission selectivity, and retention and graduation rates to determine its overall rankings.

Knauer explained that class size assesses the ability of students to engage with their instructors in class. At McDaniel, the class size average is 15 students.

The first-year retention rate average represents the percentage of first-year students who returned to the same college or university the following fall, as noted by USNews.com

Graduation rate relates to the percentage of entering first-year students who graduated within a six-year period.

Admissions selectivity is the percentage of students who are admitted.

Additionally, McDaniel once again made the list of "Top Performers on Social Mobility," which highlights schools that are successful in graduating high-need students, and among "A-plus Schools for B Students."

In addition to the U.S. News recognition, McDaniel recently ranked high among best master's universities in the nation and as a "Best Bang for the Buck" by Washington Monthly. McDaniel also appeared as one of "The Best 387 Colleges" in The Princeton Review's 2022 edition of its annual college guide and on its "Best Northeastern" regional colleges list.

Founded in 1867, McDaniel is a four-year, independent liberal arts and sciences college. It offers more than 70 undergraduate programs of study, including pre-professional specializations and student-designed majors, and over 20 graduate programs.

One of 40 "Colleges That Change Lives," McDaniel emphasizes experiential learning and student-faculty collaboration to develop the unique potential in every student.

McDaniel currently has 1,800 undergraduates and 1,400 graduate students on campuses in Baltimore and Washington, D.C., plus a European campus in Budapest, Hungary.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle! SU065310

Homebuyers Urged to Request Property's Claims History

Acting Insurance Commissioner Jessica Altman has released a brochure helping consumers learn how to access what is known as the CLUE report, showing previous claims filed against a property a homebuyer is considering buying to make sure claims are disclosed and that homeowners insurance rates are set using accurate information.

"I'm encouraging homebuyers to get a CLUE, and ask the current homeowner to request a copy of the CLUE report, which stands for Comprehensive Loss Underwriting Exchange, and lists any claims filed on the property for the past seven years," Acting Commissioner Altman told a first-time homebuyers' workshop conducted in Scranton. "The CLUE report will help ensure homebuyers are aware of this vital information before they decide to purchase a property."

The CLUE report includes information on the date of any specific damages, the type of claim filed by the policyholder, and how much money was paid by the insurance company over the past seven years. This is important information for a homebuyer as past claims may reveal a problem with the property, and revealing any past problems and claims is a requirement for the home seller.

Information on past claims and damages may also be used by insurers to set homeowners insurance premiums for the property, so it is important buyers make sure insurers are using accurate information to determine rates.

Only the owner of a property can order a CLUE report, so a homebuyer must ask the seller to get this report. Consumers get one free report a year under the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

"There are many instances in which the seller has not owned or lived in the home for seven years, and so may not be aware of all claims filed during that period," Acting Commissioner Altman said. "Home sellers also benefit from having this report to ensure proper disclosure and avoid claims of fraud, negligent misrepresentation, or breach of contract, and to make certain the information is accurate."

CLUE reports are owned and maintained by Lexis-Nexis Risk Solutions. This information source is used by most insurers to report and check the claims history of a home. A homeowner can request a report at personalreports.lexisnexis.com, or by calling 1-866-312-8076. It takes seven to ten days for a report to arrive by mail; three days by email.

Consumers with any insurance questions or complaints can contact the Insurance Department at www.insurance.pa.gov, or by calling the Consumer Services Bureau at 1-877-881-6388.

Did You Know?

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency notes that there is no practical way to eliminate all mold and mold spores in an indoor environment, including a home. But by controlling moisture in their homes or apartments, men and women can control indoor mold growth. One way to do just that is to prevent condensation in a home by adding insulation. In addition, clean building materials or furnishings that become wet as promptly as possible, and no more than 48 hours after the items have become wet. Mold produces allergens and irritants, and inhaling or touching mold or mold spores can trigger allergic responses such as sneezing, runny nose, red eyes, rashes on the skin, and even fever-like symptoms. ## You're Hired!

Résumé writing rules to follow

When professionals are ready to take a new step in their careers, it's wise to revisit their old résumés and see what can be done to update them for the current day and age. This is especially true for people who may have been out of the job-seeking arena for some time.

Writing a résumé can be complicated. The rules for finding a new job are continually evolving, and résumés remain a big component of that process. The following are some current résumé trends that will help professionals stand out from the masses.

- Consider design. Design your résumé so it will look good whether it's viewed on a screen or a mobile phone or printed on paper. Classic serif style fonts can make a résumé seem dated, so select modern fonts that are crisp. The idea is for the résumé to look balanced and clear, without being overdone with modifications, like italics and bold lettering. However, a spot of color could provide much-needed attention.

- Be brief yet effective. A concise design is key. Many recruiters spend little to no time reviewing the hordes of résumés they receive. In fact, automated résumé bots may initially screen the documents to thin the crowd. According to data from the 12th annual Mystery Job Candidate survey by CareerXRoads, the average recruiter spends six seconds looking at a résumé. If a résumé is lengthy or doesn't attract attention, it will likely be ignored. Stick to a single-page and make sure wording is brief but meaty.

- Keep juicy details up top. Format the résumé so the most pertinent information is within the top one-third of the document. Beef up a summary statement and use it in lieu of an objective. Make sure that summary includes keywords that promote your skills and experience to potentially lure the recruiter into reading more.

- Tweak job titles. Mimic phrasing from the job listing to beat the bots and get résumés flagged for review. Slightly change job position titles so they mirror the wording used. For example, if a recruiter is looking for a "financial account manager," and you have the experience, list your title as something like "Senior manager of new financial accounts."

- Who you know. Landing a new job is often about what you know, but getting a foot in the door is also largely influenced by who you know. Include any professional groups to which you belong or alumni associations. Who knows? The recruiter may have the same alma mater, and you can bond over your shared mascot.

Keywords, phrasing, formatting, and having the right skills for the job can ensure a résumé is seen by a recruiter, and perhaps even lead to a new career. TF189303

JOB OPPORTUNITIES

Discover that dream job

Whether you're unemployed or working but entertaining thoughts of moving on, finding a new job is an involved process that takes lots of commitment and hard work. Sifting through job openings can be akin to finding a needle in a haystack.

Searching through that proverbial haystack, however, is even more difficult when you're forced to compete against hundreds of others doing exactly the same. But finding a job, and doing so quickly, doesn't need to be so difficult. The following tips should help cut down on the trials and tribulations of looking for work.

- Network. Recognizing you're not the only one looking for a job is essential to finding one you really want. Recruiters' inboxes are overflowing with the resumes of potential applicants, so you need an edge. Where most job seekers find the most success is through word-of-mouth. Family, friends, former co-workers or anyone else you have regular contact with outside of your current office can all be great sources of information when looking for a job.

- Get organized. Keep track of your job-searching efforts. Finding a job can be a drawn out process, as recruiters typically must sift through large applicant pools before setting up any interviews. Keep a separate file on all jobs you've applied to, complete with a job description and copy of the cover letter and resume you sent to that particular job. Keep these files easily accessible and organized, as you never know when you might be contacted by a prospective employer.

- Know what you have to offer. Examine your strengths and work on communicating those strengths. Effectively explaining what you do best is your best chance of landing that dream job, so practice illustrating how your skills apply to each position you're seeking and how those skills can benefit the company.

- Customize your letters and resumes. No two jobs are the same, so no two sets of cover letters and resumes should be the same, either. Tailor each letter and resume to the specific job you're applying to. In particular, cover letters should emphasize specific skills that might apply to each job. Save all cover letters and resumes under different file names as well, as you'll want extra copies of each should you be granted an interview.

- Stay motivated. Particularly if you're unemployed or working part-time until you can get back into your field, the process of looking for a job can be defeating. Tales of finding a job early on in the process do exist, but more often than not the process requires sending out plenty of resumes and dealing with lots of rejection. It's a process that everyone goes through, not just you. Keep working hard and you'll find that, in due time, opportunity will come knocking. Following all of these tips will make sure that once that knock does come, you'll be prepared to answer the call. ### Speed Demons

You hear the sirens behind you and you know what's about to happen. It's too late -- you are about to get a speeding ticket. Actually, there are things that you can do to, perhaps, get off with only a warning. Autoadvice.com, run by Brocom L.L.com, suggests that you slow down and pull over to the right shoulder immediately after the officer pulls behind you. Stay in your car unless you are asked by the police to leave it. Roll down the window when asked, and keep your hands visible on the steering wheel. If you need to reach into your pockets, purse or glove compartment to get your driver's license, registration or insurance card, explain what you are doing. Speak courteously and clearly, and don't let passengers speak unless they are instructed to do so. And maybe, just maybe, you won't get that ticket. Nonetheless, the best way to avoid a speeding ticket in the future is to follow the speed limit! FC04A66

America Seeing a Flood of 'Flood Cars'

(NAPSI)—Recent research suggests drivers may be behind the wheel of more than 325,000 previously flooded vehicles. That's a 20 percent increase from 2016 and a stark reminder to consumers to do due diligence when used-car shopping.

"I bought a car last year and the seller never told us anything about it being a flood car," said Charlene Geiger from Pennsylvania. "When we got home and ran a Carfax, there it was—a flood car from Hurricane Sandy. It showed that the seller bought it as a salvage car and the title was washed when he brought it to Pennsylvania. We lost $16,000 over all of it."

Vehicles reported as flood damaged by a state's Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV), insurance companies and more have washed up in every state. These 10 have the most:

1. Texas—51,000
2. Louisiana—29,000
3. Pennsylvania—20,000
4. Florida—19,000
5. Kentucky—16,000
6. Illinois—15,000
7. South Carolina—13,000
8. Virginia—13,000
9. North Carolina—13,000
10. Michigan—11,000.

In addition, several hundred thousand more flooded cars may emerge from Hurricanes Harvey and Irma.

Historically, about half the vehicles damaged by floods end up back on the market. Flooded cars rot from the inside out as water corrodes the mechanical parts, shorts the electrical system, and compromises safety features like air bags and anti-lock brakes. Health concerns are an added problem, as mold and bacteria permeate the soft parts of the car.

"Our data shows there's still much work to be done in helping consumers avoid buying flood-damaged cars," said Dick Raines, president of Carfax. "They can, and do, show up all over the country, whether it be a few miles or hundreds of miles from where the flooding occurred. With two devastating storms like Harvey and Irma, it's vital for used-car buyers everywhere to protect themselves from flooded cars that may wind up for sale. Start with a thorough test-drive, a vehicle history report and a mechanic's inspection before buying any used car."

With the world's largest vehicle history database, Carfax helps millions confidently buy, own and sell used cars. Now, in the wake of Hurricanes Harvey and Irma, it's letting consumers check for flood damage free of charge at www.carfax.com/flood.

What's the difference? Hunger Pangs vs. Snack Cravings

Most of us eat more than we need to. Often it's because we think we're hungry when we're really anxious, depressed, bored, or just tempted by the plate of brownies a co-worker brought in this morning.

Although you shouldn't wait until you're faint with hunger to eat, pay attention to the signals your body is sending you. These are the typical symptoms of real hunger:

- Growling, gurgling, or rumbling in the stomach
- Irritability

- Headache
- Dizziness
- Difficulty concentrating
- Nausea

Not sure whether you're really hungry? Ask yourself if something healthy, like an apple or an orange, would make you feel better.

If not—if you think you really, really need that chocolate chip cookie—then chances are you're having a craving, not a real hunger pang. Exercise your will power until your body needs refueling.

PUBLIC AUCTIONS

Auction Terms

Absentee Bid

A procedure which allows a bidder to participate in the bidding process without being physically present. Generally, a bidder submits an offer on an item prior to the auction. Absentee bids are usually handled under an established set of guidelines by the auctioneer or his representative. The particular rules and procedures of absentee bids are unique to each auction company.

Reserve Auction

An auction in which the seller reserves the right to establish a reserve price, to accept or decline any and all bids or to withdraw the property at any time prior to the announcement of the completion of the sale by the auctioneer.

Bidder's Choice

A method of sale whereby the successful high bidder wins the right to choose a property or properties from a grouping of similar or like-kind properties. After the high bidder's selection, the property is deleted from the group, and the second round of bidding commences, with the high bidder in round two choosing a property, which is then deleted from the group and so on, until all properties are sold.

Tax Sale

Public sale of property at auction by governmental authority, due to nonpayment of property taxes.

Agent

A person who acts for or in the place of another individual or entity by authority from them.

Conditions of Sale

The legal terms that govern the conduct of an auction, including acceptable methods of payment, terms, buyer's premiums, possession, reserves and any other limiting factors of an auction. Usually included in published advertisements or announced by the auctioneer prior to the start of the auction.

Caravan Auctions

A series of on site auctions advertised through a common promotional campaign.

Bookkeeper or Clerk

The person who is responsible for the accounting and paperwork at an auction sale.
